

Peter Landon, 37, architect. Landon, who works with the firm of Weese Hickey Weese Architects Ltd., is regarded for a sense of social responsibility he has demonstrated by his outstanding design of inner-city housing for low-income and handicapped people. "What you design can make their lives better. A real sense of pride emerges. Even though they don't own the townhouses, they plant gardens. Seeing people get a good start is satisfying."